reversible leggings have become an essential item in my case for so many different types of travel, especially when looking to travel light. The colour pairs well with the hooded tunic from Ex-Officio I also own; the striped pattern on the reverse mixes things up a bit and adds a bit of attitude to a day's look. The leggings look fab with boots, ballet flats or sneakers. The fabric is thick enough to not be transparent, and keep me cozy on cold airplanes but thin enough to be flexible and comfortable. There is a hidden security zip pocket on the waistband that is the exact size of a credit card or hotel room key. They are versatile and can be worn with long sweaters, t-shirts, hoodies, or a tunic. I could imagine taking only two pairs of these for a whole week and easily achieve enough different looks. Ideal for boating, hiking, biking, and layering under waterproof pants or jeans for extra warmth.
