I'm not a knapsack person, however as a frequent adventure traveller, it's a necessary item to carry. I have had an AmeriBag knapsack for approximately seven years and cannot find a fault with it. Recently I was looking to replace it and looked in earnest at many different types but couldn't find any knapsack that ticked so many boxes as well as being sleek and simple to carry.

Made of microfiber, its incredibly lightweight, yet strong, soft and comfortable. It is the perfect combination of form and function, making style easy. It can be worn cross-body for full back benefits or over the shoulder to grab and get on with your day.

It's designed to mold to the shape of your spine, minimizing the strain on your back, neck and shoulders. The body-hugging contours and adjustable wearing mean that you aren't twisting or straining your posture. The unique tear shape keeps weight evenly distributed across your back. With the main zip always against your back, anything you are carrying is safe and accessible without taking your bag off. Having the double zippers meet in the middle make accessing your belongings easy.

The biggest benefit to this small knapsack is the cleverly designed pockets inside and out making organization super easy. I carry an iPad, book, notebook, snacks, extra cables, jewellery, medications, water bottle in the exterior bottle holder, and inside there is even a small hook to hang house keys, so at the end of your trip, you know where they are.

A signature silver lining reflects natural light making rummaging through searching for items unnecessary.
